Conference Tracks

The USET Tribal Best Practices Conference tracks are designed to provide a diverse and comprehensive platform for exploring critical issues and emerging trends across various programmatic focuses. These tracks aim to foster dialogue, collaboration, and innovation. Through engaging presentations, panel discussions, and networking opportunities, participants will gain valuable insights, share expertise, and forge meaningful connections with fellow professionals and thought leaders.

- ❖ Our Homelands - Exploring the relationship between indigenous communities and their ancestral lands, this track delves into the challenges and best practices of preserving cultural heritage, community development, and environmental stewardship.
- ❖ Our Resources - This track examines the sustainable management and utilization of resources (natural, human capital, and others) vital to communities.
- ❖ Our People - Focusing on the well-being and empowerment of indigenous people, this track addresses issues such as health, education, and the preservation of traditional knowledge and languages.
- ❖ Our Future - Envisioning a future shaped by indigenous perspectives, this track explores innovative solutions to pressing global challenges.
